I RISE TO REMARK

BY JOHN PHILLIPS

Never, in the history of the nation, have there been so many visitors to Washington. As the younger generation would say, is that good? Yes, I think it is. It is only a straw, but to that extent it is an indication of a reviving interest in government, which historically means that the people are about ready to take care of the termites that have crept into the national woodwork.

I had in mind the younger visitors, who come down in their school busses, but we also have the older visitors, who are much more apt to be the ones from California. It's too far for the school busses. The two conventions have brought the folks from home, and a surprising number have run over to Washington. The office is open all year, and we're glad to see you.

In fact, one of the significant changes, taking place in government, is the amount of work in any Congressional office. It was not the intention of the framers of the Constitution that the time of the Senators and Representatives should be filled with the personal problems of the constituents, who now have no other way to reach the growing bureaucracy, and to get the attention the problem has to have, and who properly turn to the Congressional office for help.

Somebody wrote that a President was two men; I think a Representative is more. He is the man who helps make the laws; he is, coincident with that, the man who works on committees and on investigations; he is the man who acts as the advocate of his people with the bureaus and departments and agencies; he is the man who reports, by the letter or by radio or in person, to his district so that the people at home will know the facts about conditions in Washington and abroad, which facts, regretfully, the people are no longer sure of getting from their government direct. Finally, he is the man who must give time and effort to acquaint himself sufficiently with the problems before Congress, that he will not be a rubber stamp for some individual or group, for from that grows dictatorship, red, black or brown-shirted dictatorship. That's why Congressional offices are round-the-calendar offices today.

One of the secretaries, Mrs. Spellman, will keep this Washington office open; another, Mrs. Parry, will leave in a few days for Banning, to reopen the recess office there. Mrs. Phillips and I have finally completed arrangements for getting on a little freight boat and travelling slowly home through the canal. One of the leisurely things about freight boat travel is that you're not entirely sure when you sail, or land. That depends on the cargo, not the convenience of the passengers.

We should be in Los Angeles harbor on the 28th or 29th, stopping only long enough to fill the water tanks, take on supplies, and let off the Phillips'.

Then we'll be home.

Artesia Will Fete Lucky Contestant

An interesting feature of the Artesia Lions clubs second annual carnival which will be held August 14 and 15 is a popularity contest. The lucky girl to win first prize will receive a valuable fur coat while second prize winner will be the possessor of an Elgin wrist watch. The deadline to register in the contest is Saturday, July 24. Billie's dress shop is receiving registrations.

The big festival is sponsored by the Lion's club in the interest of the youth movement in Artesia. At a meeting held this week, $500 was presented to the Artesia youth council, to be used as the group sees fit. A sum of $200 was previously donated which was used for lights and basket ball stands at the local ball park. The money received at this year's affair will be similarly donated to the cause of the community's young people, according to infrmation received from the publicity chairman, Joe Marks.

New Office For Edison Company

Construction of Southern California Edison Company's new $19,000 commercial office building at 232 West Commonwealth in Fullerton will begin this month, according to F. W. Nelson, district manager.

Designed by the Edison Company, the new building will be entirely functional and modern throughout, utilizing the latest developments in automatic air conditioning, heating and lighting. Attractive exterior features include a cove front, concrete and brick construction and large areas of glass.

Present plans call for completion early next year of the company's new Fullerton headquarters, which is being built by John C. Blystone, general contractor, in close collaboration with Edison engineers.

Attendance Shows Interest In Sewers

Due to the great interest now being displayed in the outlying communities of west Orange county with regard to a need for the installation of sewers, a goodly number of residents attended a meeting at the schoolhouse in Cypress last Monday evening, which was sponsored by the Cypress chamber of commerce.

Particularly well represented was Stanton and Los Alamitos, the latter having a large delegation, mostly residents of the new project east of town. Cypress people themselves showed interest in the chamber's activities as each section of the community was represented by interested residents, although the Veterans' of Foreign Wars organization showed a particular interest through publicity given the subject in its group meetings, and since a majority of the members have moved into Cypress manor, householders in this tract were well represented.

It was especially gratifying to the chamber of commerce members to note the intense interest and honest effort on the part of those present to delve into the problems involved in the formation of a sanitation district for west Orange county. It was to be regretted that the speaker of the evening, E. L. Whitson, of Westminster, who had previously communicated with the chamber of commerce requesting permission to present a proposal which it was felt would interest those in the surrounding communities, was not available at the time of the meeting. In Cypress, however, were two men who had served with Whitson on the original committee set up about two years ago to study plans for sewage disposal, and Frank P. Noe and Richard V. Hathcock were able to distribute written material and present a background to those who were interested and had not had opportunity to hear the story as the residents here did this spring when Dr. Pomeroy, county engineer, appeared before a similar open meeting.

Radios Won During Week

Selling subscriptions to the local newspaper has proved to be an interesting and profitable occupation for several of the children around town this summer. Receiving a radio too late to be mentioned after last week's deadline for news was Dick Prowse, who wound up his subscription business in a hurry, so that he could enjoy his plane trip to Seattle.

A colored radio went this week to Bailey Patterson, Jr., who, along with Elaine Miranda, are now engaged in the circulation department of the Enterprise on a commission basis for the vacation period because of their zeal and industry. Another similarly employed in his spare time for fun and profit is Jim Hall. There are several boys and girls working toward radios who have not reported so far this week, who mostly live in outlying communities. Their names will be mentioned as radios are received.

The people who have been approached by the youngsters are to be congratulated for their splendid cooperation and unfailing good humor and patience in the interest of budding future careers.

New Rental Units Planned By Cue In Los Alamitos

MOVIES TONIGHT!

Don't forget the movie program at the school auditorium tonight. For your entertainment, the feature is "Tanks a million," starring Jimmie "Schnozzle" Durante.

School Board Has Two To Hire Here

The board of directors of the Cypress elementary school has been unusually active in the past few weeks since school closed interviewing applicants for vacancies which exist on the staff.

Dan Mackay, school secretary, has disclosed that the following teachers have been signed, but that the position following the teacher's name is a tentative arrangement and may not be final when school opens in the fall. Heading the group is Miss Elizabeth Dickerson, Anaheim, principal; Mrs. Clarissa Higgins, Cypress, kindergarten; Mrs. Elizabeth P. Jones, Fullerton, third; Mrs. Pauline Thompson, Long Beach, fourth; Miss Majorie Turpin, Long Beach, third; Miss Wanda Mae Armour, Redlands, second; Mrs. Henrietta Arnold, Bellflower, fifth; Mrs. Blanche Bartron, Long Beach, second; Paul Winsor, Anaheim, eighth; Mrs. Lois Lissner, Artesia, sixth; Mrs. Dodey Harper, Santa Ana, music; and Mrs. Dorothea F. Mitchell, El Toro, first.

Two more positions are still to be filled.

Ray R. Suess Visits Cypress Inspecting

An official call was made in Cypress last Tuesday by Ray R. Suess, fire control officer for Orange county, who was checking progress on the new fire station on Walker street.

There are only two fire districts in the whole of Orange county, and the rest are volunteer fire departments There are a total of 16 stations in the county, which number includes the two fire districts. There is, at the present time, a county-wide program to establish local fire departments.

The county is responsible for the building of seven adobe type fire stations which, when finished have a red tile roof. This is the type of building which is being constructed here. The plan, though general, allows for a very practical and comfortable station which will meet the needs of a small community to house fire equipment, and provide for personnel.

J. M. Harvey Manages New Anaheim Store

Wednesday marked the opening day in Anaheim of Reinhardt's appliance store at 114 east Center street, Orange county's newly decorated, largest and finest appliance store. Reinhardt's has served the public for twelve years at the same location, having formerly been known for sewing machine sales and service. The building, which boasts a 120 feet depth, has been redecorated in the colors of light green and white, to display to their full advantage Westinghouse products, with the first showing of 1949 new Westinghouse merchandise.

Serving in the capacity of general manager is James M. Harvey, formerly a merchant in Cypress, who is responsible for making this one of the show places in Anaheim. On his staff as sales manager is "Genial" Joe Shuman, until recently a salesman with the Buena Park appliance store.

New Appliance Store Here Soon

Frank P. Noe, who recently bought the stock and fixtures of the All-In-All stores, Inc., from the former owner, Walter A. Wier, states that the stock is moving satisfactorily.

Although nothing definite could be learned at this time, it is believed that Noe will soon announce the name of an appliance man with many years experience to take over this location.

IT'S BEING SAID -- IN CYPRESS

That it's been an interesting, hectic week, and if you believe that we have time or space to print information on all the interesting items we've gleaned, you should become a dispenser of information, yet. Suffice it to say that the world moves crazily, and swiftly along. We did make good our threat, though, to be present at a performance of "Merton of the movies", starring Sterling Holloway, at Holiday stage in Tustin. Since the duties of theatre critics are a little out of our line, we can only report with straightforward simplicity that to us every character was a star, but we had eyes only for the fascinating technique of actor Holloway. We could be convinced that "Merton of the movies" was authored expressly as a vehicle to star Sterling, even though we know better. We might ask how the producers and staff manage this superb entertainment in a setting so remote from the bright lights of the big city, but that would be to hang our head in shame, since the members of the press have twice been invited to Tustin to meet the stars and examine the workings of a professional summer stock company, and we are the loser. And by the way, if you pick up the telephone right now, you'll just about have time for a Saturday reservation.

That after last week's query concerning the initials on a Roosevelt dime, Jack Fullerton came literally "bustin" into the office. He convinced us of what we suspeceted all along, that those are the artist's initials, although we understand that it is not permitted as a rule. Jack called the bank in Anaheim to get the real "dope", but bankers are busy these days, and a report was not received. It is believed that the artist who was responsible for the dime died very recently.

That we weren't quite prepared when a queen came walking into our office one day last week. She was Gloria Mancebo, who will reign at the Westminster Catholic Fiesta soon. What she was interested in securing was the picture which appeared in the Santa Ana Register recently of the group of lovelies chosen to rule for the day. (She has copies of the photo in the Long Beach Press Telegram.) If you should find one that she desires, call Buena Park 5381. We were struck by the fact that all the beauties chosen had names of foreign origin. Gloria's is Portugese. The judges were on the right track, for we were particularly impressed with the grace and poise of the future "ruler."

That we're going to make a remark in this column, rather than speak about it where it properly belongs, in the editorial section, because we know you'll read it here. We don't have to say in black and white that Cypress has no theatre, or, for that matter, and other form of similar recreation. However, the recreation park committee, supported by the business men, have made it possible to enjoy entertainment in the form of a movie once a week. Not only can you have an opportunity to see a picture, but you can aid in a very worthy cause—that of making possible eventually recreation grounds and facilities for the youth and grown-ups of this community. The children are for the movies, and the attendance has been satisfactory, except that the park fund will not grow by leaps and bounds on the kiddies' admissions. The business men "chip" in so much every week, to keep the idea alive. Wouldn't you readers like to help, whether you have time to attend the movie or not? It would be a painless way to help in a worth-while cause, and you could benefit by it personally. We have so much confidence in the youngsters in this town that we'll bet they could sell a roll of tickets in no time at all, as witness the names of the boys and girls who have won little radios so far and there are more yet to be announced. Gives the children a feeling of satisfaction, too, when they can do somthing real for their community. And it's not like you aren't getting something for your money.

That we have to wind this up somehow, so we'll mention that we had our first opportunity to appear socially since we've been in town, and we enjoyed every minute of it. However, the visit was made in the interest of a subject very dear to our heart, and that is traffic control. The members of the Women's community club responded to our plea overwhelmingly, and took steps then and there to let the highway patrol know that it, as a group, is behind the effort to secure a four-way stop at the corner of Lincoln and Walker. With all the clubs and societies working toward a common goal, we'll lick this problem yet. And we might add that we would not be adverse to accepting invitations from other organized groups to present our plan if the opportunity were presented.

EXTRA

Doye Lee Kemp, thirteen years old of 5402 Camp street, reported to the county sheriff's office Thursday afternoon that he was held up at approximately 3:15 about 500 feet north of Crescent on Moody by three men, who were described as being approximately 21, 31, and 18 years of age. The 21-year old was Mexican and the other two were believed to be white. The men were driving a maroon-colored 1948 sedan, which the boy thought to be a Packard, with an out-of-state license. Not much description could be ascertained concerning the trio, except that the youngest man had a .22 calibre revolver, was dressed in blue jeans and cowboy shirt with a silver horseshoe belt buckle.

From the information given, this car is supposed to have been seen around Cypress in the last few days. The men drove past Kemp a couple or three times while he was collecting money on his Santa Ana Register paper route, and he was robbed of a sum around $45. Local and state police were alerted and on the lookout at the time of the paper's going to press.

Cypress Airpark Gets Improvements

Since the manager of the Cypress airpark was advised that his field was included on the first marked private plane route from Los Angeles to Washington, D. C., the activities around the airport have all pointed to a definite slicking up. James Bryant has had under construction a fine new building which is very near completion to be used for the maintenance and repair of planes. This is ideally located in an area by itself, away from the main activities of a busy air terminal.

Nightly, at the present time, Bryant is attempting a primitive one-man assault upon the run-way to achieve a smooth, glass-like surface. This is done by the means of a water sprinkler and roller. The work must be accomplished at night, when the activities at the airpark have ceased momentarily.

The plane route referred to is Skyway One, an idea conceived by Los Angeles Chamber officials, and which became a reality through its efforts and that of the Washington Board of Trade. In commemoration of recent ceremonies dedicating Skyway One, the Wright Skyway, a plaque was installed in Dayton, Ohio, home of the flying Wright brothers, for whom skyway was named. The text is as follows: "Wright Skyway -1- commemorating the national dedication of Wright Skyway, the first transcontinental air-marked skyway intended to promote safe contact flying. The Dayton airport is a major point on this 40-mile wide skyway. The first skyway marked to assist the private flyer has been designated Wright Skyway as a tribute to the first private flyers, Orville and Wilbur Wright, world-famed aviation pioneers whose early experiments took place in Dayton. Dayton Chamber of Commerce; Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce; Washington Board of Trade, April 24, 1948."

And the name of Cypress appears on the official map of this route, thanks to the foresight of its airpark manager and the aid of the members of the Cypress chamber of commerce. In addition to his business activities, Bryant will head the parade committee for White Gold Days.

Graveside Service For Returned Soldier Hero

Lonnie P. Davis, Jr., private first class, U.S.A., died in action March 14, 1944, on Bougainville island. He had lived most of his life at Los Alamitos. Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie P. Davis, Huntington Beach; sisters, Mrs. Mabel Cox, Newport Beach, and Mrs. Stella Blankenship and Miss Mary Frances Davis Huntington Beach, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. P. Davis, Chandler, Arizona. A graveside service was conducted at Westminster Memorial Park Wednesday at 11 a.m. Rev. Jack Orman Whitaker of Los Alamitos Community church officiated. Members of Los Alamitos Post of American Legion served as guard of honor and pallbearers. Smith Mortuary of Huntington Beach directed the arrangements.

Wanted: A Hoss AND A BUGGY

No, you are not seeing wrong. The date line on this week's paper is 1948 all right, and you haven't suddenly been transplanted to a by-gone era. And "hoss" is just our charming eastern friend's expression as she earnestly pleads for a horse and buggy, or a surrey with a fringe on top. Got any old ones lying around not in use? Buggies, we mean.

In perfect seriousness, there is some sense to all this. Cypress is beginning now to ready itself for white Gold Days, and from now on—anything can happen. Mrs. William Redmayne, at 8851 south Walker (house in rear) is chairman of a committee for the Community Club, which is working on some idea which probably only a group of women could cook up. And we'll bet it will be great. S-o-o-o, she asks you for old-fashioned costumes—just anything you've got lying around that's old, and looks like it once belonged to great Aunt Mary or something that Mother's mother wore. Oh yes, and don't forget that hoss and buggy. Above, all, don't fail the little lady. It's worth a trip just to hear her talk about it! But try to have the offer of a four-legged critter in mind whose initials begin with "h" and end with an "e".

Depression In Crime Reported By Probation Officer

Orange county is presently enjoying a depression.

Enjoying it, because it's a nice kind of depression. It's a depression in crime.

Both adults and juveniles are on their best behavior in years.

In the six weeks from June 4 to July 9, only 15 criminal cases were filed in superior court.

During a recent 24-hour period, Sheriff Jim Musick's office had only one call—a complaint about a barking dog.

County Probation Officer David R. McMillan's office reports the lowest number of probation applications in Superior Court adult cases in four years for the first half of 1948, which had 65, after a peak 105 applications for the first half of 1947. There were 72 applications in the corresponding period of both 1946 and 1945. Juvenile probation applications for the first half of these four years were 24 in 1945, up to 43 in 1946, at a peak of 49 in 1947, and back to 42 this year.

In filings of new juvenile cases, the slump was even more noticeable, with 408 the first six months in 1948, as compared to 541 for the corresponding period in 1947, 538 in 1946 and 499 in 1945. Of these, 157 were admitted to juvenile home this year, 169 in 1947, 231 in 1946 and 155 in 1945.

Why 1947 was a peak and 1948 is a valley in crime is a question county officials do not attempt to answer. Increase in population was suspected last year, but the population is increasing just as fast or faster this year. Of those seeking probation in superior court this year, 17 had never lived in Orange County and became involved with the law on their first day here; 19 had lived in the county less than a year and 29 were residents a year or longer. Nothing conclusive in that proportion, officials say.

Combat fatigue or other unfavorable war reaction appears to offer no key. Of this year's applicants, two were in military service, 39 were ex-service men and 24 had no service record.

It is known that local conditions hav nothing to do with the situation. Officials hear the same reports from other California counties.

"At present", said Assistant Probation Officer Charles Robison, "we are inclined to accept the situation without venturing an explanation. Crime comes in waves and this no doubt is just one of the low spots between crests. We are holding our breath with the thought that maybe this isn't too good to last."

Club To Be Busy On Big Plans For Gold Days Fete

Mrs. Haskell A. Kelley was hostess last Tuesday afternoon to members and friends of the Women's community club in its regular business and social meeting.

The business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. Frank Noe, and the major portion of the discussion was concerning White Gold Days. A special guest speaker was T. J. Boyd, local nurseryman, who, as chairman of the celebration's carnival committee, was anxious that the members consider sponsoring as many booths as they felt they could. As a result of Boyd's invitation it was voted to be responsible for two booths, for fancy work and food display. Mrs. A. H. Strempel who is chairman of the fancy work booth, will welcome any items such as fancy tea towels, pot holders, or any of the myriad of articles usually found at a fancy work bazaar. The chairman in charge of the food display booth, Mrs. Emily Fernandez, is anxious to receive any kind of canned fruit and vegetables, home-baked pies and cakes, candy or whatever.

It was the consensus of those present that the club should enter a float in the parade, and after being voted on by the group, Mrs. William Redmayne was made responsible for planning and making the necessary arrangements for an entry.

Mrs. Haskell A. Kelley consented to receive donations for the various activities at the Cypress Hardware store. Anyone wishing to give for any one of these projects may contact her there.

Regular business included a report by the hospital committee for June, Mrs. A. H. Strempel and Mrs. Pierce Ausborne. Mrs. Noe volunteered to represent the club in this activity for July, and she will be accompanied on the regular visit by a member as yet unnamed.

Another important step was the signing of a petition, to be sent to the proper authorities, for a four-way stop at the corner of Lincoln and Walker, following a presentation of the need by Beth Kroesen, speaking in the interests of the Business Men's association. The women declared that they believed efforts should be made individually, also, through personal letters and pledged their full cooperation.

Honored guests, who were recipients of many lovely gifts at an informal baby shower following the business meeting, were Mrs. Ross Mestor and Mrs. Christine Swain. Just preceding the opening of the packages, Mrs. Sara Miller gave an especially appropriate reading. Other guests were Mrs. James Bryant, who will soon become a member of the organization; the three sisters of Mrs. George Worthington, who are visiting here, Mrs. M. J. Bowen, of Quitman, Georgia; Mrs. W. C. McInnis, of Valdosta, Georgia; and Mrs. J. O. Bickley, of Houston, Texas. Mrs. Gerald Kelley assisted the hostess, who served a delicious lunch to bring the pleasant afternoon to a close.

The next regular meeting will be in the form of a covered dish picnic supper at Anaheim park on the regular meeting day, to which friends and family may be invited.

FARMS FOR THE FAMILY

Wide circulation in the depression years of such sensational literary works as "The Grapes of Wrath" and "Factories in the Field" spread the impression far and wide that farming in the great valleys of California is almost entirely a corporate, big business affair. Farming as a way of life, it was freely charged, had little meaning here.

That impression has been hard to shake. Only recently, Congressional committee witnesses who argued in behalf of the "160-acre limitation" on Central Valley water users, insisted that the family farm in California is headed for oblivion.

It is doubtful that Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics Bulletin, Vol. 32, No. 5, just released, will attract great reader attention. No Steinbeck wrote it. But the factual report of California farm ownership trends contained in it is in sharp contrast to popular conceptions.

In the days of the Dust Bowl migrations, 42 per cent of California farms were tenant-operated, according to the Bureau report. But by 1947, a continuing trend toward individual farm ownership had reduced that figure to 25 per cent! On an acreage basis, absentee landlordism decreased as well.

"More and more California farmers," the report concluded, "are becoming owners of their own land."

Dirt farming always has been the basis for the Nation's agricultural prosperity. It is good to know that despite the barrage of propaganda to the contrary, family-sized farms are on the increase in California.

DON'T TAKE A CHANCE

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has issued a timely warning concerning fire hazards that are especially great during summer and early fall.

The fire rate in vacation cottages and resort hotels runs high—due almost entirely to simple carelessness. Many summer homes are far from fire departments, and once a fire gets going, a total loss often results. The only defense is constant watchfulness. Don't overload electric circuits with extra appliances. Don't use refrigerators and similar equipment which have been out of service for months without oiling them. And—above all—see that stoves and pipes are all protected from woodwork, and that fireplaces are screened.

Keep some sort of fire-fighting equipment ready at hand. If a fire is detected quickly, a garden hose or a hand extinguisher may check it before serious damage is done.

The best part of a vacation is getting out of doors. But, in time, there won't be any enticing out of doors visit if we fail to control fire. Watch your smoking materials. And never leave a camp fire until it has been thoroughly smothered with water and damp earth.

In short, don't take a chance. Then you'll have a happy, healthful vacation—and so will everyone else.

PROTECT GLADIOLUS FROM DISEASES AND INSECTS

Prevention should be your watchword when it comes to controlling the insects and diseases to which gladiolus are susceptible. Once they gain an entry, the job becomes much more difficult.

With diseases, several methods of prevention can be followed. Do not, first of all, grow gladiolus in the same plot more than once in 4 or 5 years. Be sure, too, to dig them carefully, get them cured quickly and stored properly. Third, burn withered corms and leaves after harvest and destroy diseased corms. Finally, treat the corms with chemicals.

Scab is the most common disease of gladiolus. It is a bacterial disease and is easily recognized on stored corms by the burnt areas on the husks. There may be depressed black spots and the corm may appear scabby. The effects of the disease during the growing season are evidenced by dying leaves at the base or neck of the plant.

One method of treatment used in recent years is with Lysol. The corms are soaked for 3 hours, just before planting, in 1½ tablespoonfuls of Lysol to 1 gallon of water. There are still more up-to-date methods and my suggestion would be to talk with your Nurseryman for guidance. But, whatever method you use, permit corms to dry before planting.

Though not as common in gladiolus as scab, rots are another cause of trouble. They are fungus diseases and chemical treatment does little good. Rely on the preventive practices outlined above to guard against them.

Most troublesome insect pest attacking gladiolus is gladiolus thrips, different from other thrips, that they have a whitish band on their tiny (1/25 in. in length) brown bodies.

In the garden, thrips can be effectively controlled with a new, all-purpose garden dust. Plants should be dusted at weekly intervals, starting just as soon as plants leaf out. Dusting this often is easy to do with the handy dust gun applicator and there is no unsightliness following dusting. And, in addition to controlling garden thrips, this dust also guards your other plants, including vegetables, shrubs and fruits, from most of the major chewing insects sucking insects and fungus diseases.

Certain insects are very difficult to control. Here again, my advice would be to see your Nurseryman for the recommended treatment.

THIS AND THAT

Alvin F. Kime, Inglewood, newly elected California State Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, says, that his administration will be dedicated to service to veterans, better hospital conditions, and what he terms probably most important, "the prompt establishment of minimum building standards for all veterans' housing."

"Although not the VFW housing objective, a form of housing relief was accomplished by the 80th congress," Kime said. "Now we must protect the veteran who does get a chance to buy or build."

Increasing complaints by veterans of sub-standard construction in new housing projects, Kime declared, have prompted the VFW to advocate for many months effective legislation to protect the veteran from unscrupulous housing profiteers.

THIS AND THAT

How the milk you drink is processed will be shown in a model dairy barn and milk house which will form part of the dairy industry exhibit at the California State Fair, September 2 through 12,

The barn and milk house, to be built according to State Department of Agriculture specifications, will be located in one corner of the cattle barn and will be arranged so fair visitors will be able to see the kind of milk they drink processed under the same sanitary conditions demanded in commercial dairies.

More than 50 dairy cattle will be entered in the Fair livestock show and of this total approximately 100 will be milked two and three times daily. Because they are purebred and noted for high yields, the dairy will process from 600 to 800 gallons daily, which will be sold to local creameries. In past years this milk has gone to waste, for the cows must be milked daily and the milk could not be sold because it had not been processed.

Approximately 450 pictures painted by Orange County children were submitted in the Festival contest from which 100 were chosen for exhibition and prizes in the Junior Art Gallery at the Festival of Arts at Laguna Beach, which started July 14 and continues through the 25th.

"The best examples of art work from all schools were presented for final judging," Mrs. Leonard Scheu, chairman, stated today. Thousands of Festival visitors who last year considered the exhibit wonderful will see an even more outstanding display."

Retail sales and use tax revenues for the first quarter of 1948, were the second highest in the history of the tax and amounted to $65,512,169, according to William G. Bonelli, Chairman of the State Board of Equalization. These taxes were based upon taxable transactions of 2,620,486,760, and represented a gain of 8.96 percent over the first quarter of 1947.

It was noted by Bonelli that every county in the state registered a gain over the corresponding period of the previous year, with 14 of the 58 counties showing increases of over 20 percent. The increases in Los Angeles, San Francisco and 14 other counties were less than the state-wide average. The counties of Los Angeles and San Francisco, which accounted for 42.96 and 12.52 percent of the total tax, respectively, were up 7.73 and 4.56 percent over the corresponding quarter of 1947.

Motor vehicle sales, which soared to an all-time high of over $325,000,000, accounted for $8,162,000 of sales tax revenue for the quarter. It should be noted, however, that the percentage increase in taxable automobile sales over the corresponding quarter of the previous year was smaller than for any other quarter since V-J day. Outlets engaged in this activity yielded one-eighth of the total sales tax for the quarter. Motor vehicle dealers have replaced, for the second successive quarter, outlets serving meals and drinks as the largest single source of revenue.

Time Limit For Meats In Freezing Storage

If frozen pork is to be fine in flavor, it should be used within five or six months of the date stored, reports H. W. Longfellow, Assistant Farm Advisor.

When stored too long the fat in pork gradually becomes rancid and the meat loses its best flavor. Salt speeds up rancidity.

Ground meat should not be kept in freezing storage more than one to three months. Beef, veal, and poultry may be safely left in freezing lockers for nine to 12 months.

Rural families producing meat on the farm and wishing to keep part of it in freezing storage will find full directions for preparing, freezing, and storing meats in a leaflet of the University of California Agricultural Extension Service. This leaflet is the work of Dr. Vera Greaves Mark, specialist in nutrition. It is free to those requesting it from the extension office, 1104 W. 8th Street, Santa Ana.

Local Cycle Fans Object

(Editor's note: The following letter is published for your consideration in the interests and at the request of our good friends and neighbors who depend upon a motorcycle for transportation, or who are skilled in the intricacies of cycle repair and depend upon their knowledge to make a living.)

Dear Friend,

You no doubt have heard and read a great deal about the adverse publicity resulting from recent major motorcycle meets. We of the authorized motorcycle clubs of Southern California affiliated with the American Motorcycle Association admit that some of these things do happen and that the motorcycle riders and their fans and the dealers are every bit as incensed over it as the general public.

It is a known fact that these disturbances are incited and carried to the extreme by a "lunatic fringe" of riders who follow on the heels and muscle in on our meets creating disturbances and posing for sensational pictures.

Briefly, our plan is to organize a motorcycle patrol within our own ranks to police our major events. What we intend to do is appoint five or six members of each club to be citizen policemen. They will patrol the meets and when a guy gets out of line they'll make a civilian arrest, haul him off to the pokey and sign a complaint against him.

This plan has been presented to the chiefs of police of Pasadena, South Pasadena, Monterey Park and Pomona. They have approved the plan and have signified their intention to give the plan their full support and guidance.

Anything that this newspaper can do in furthering this campaign will be greatly appreciated. Sincerely yours, Johnnie Foster, president, Black Eagle Motorcycle club."

Word received Wednesday from Mrs. Olive Williams, county editor for the Anaheim Bulletin and correspondent locally, indicates that she is enjoying her vacation, and is loathe to return to her reportorial duties. She was visiting in Santa Cruz, the town in which she was born, when her postcard was mailed.

Stage And Press Entertained At Tustin

Eight members of the Junior Ebell Club of Santa Ana were hostesess Tuesday at a picnic luncheon given for members of the local press and for the Holiday Stage troupe at Tustin. The luncheon, which was held on the lawns behind the theatre, served as an introduction to the cast of the current production, "Merton of the Movies," which stars Sterling Holloway, world-renowned comedian, and great favorite of last summer's Holiday Stage season. Present, besides Mr. Holloway, were his leading lady, Mary Finney, John Alvin, of stage and motion pictures, Connie and Glen Wells, popular thespians from Laguna, Laura Collins, late of the famed Woodstock Players of Illinois, and Don Quinn, Bill and June Pullen, Georgia Phillips, and Doni Hurd, featured players of the regular Holiday stage company who rounded out the cast.

Little Kathryn Crowther of Long Beach is a visitor this week in the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Bryant, and her cousin, Patricia Ann, at 4861 Grace street.

On Monday, July 12, a four pound baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lichte, Jr., of 9123 South Walker street.

A pleasant reunion of four sisters took place the latter part of June in the George Worthington home on north Watson street, and the visit, which will extend into the fall, is giving rise to many entertaining social events and opportunities for sight-seeing in California. Mrs. Worthington is entertaining two sisters who hail from Georgia, Mrs. M. J. Bowen of Quitman, and Mrs. W. C. McInnis, of Valdosta. En route by train, they were joined by Mrs. J. O. Bickley, of Houston, Texas, and started the summer activities off properly by visiting the Grand Canyon. The family home was in Valdosta, where the four sisters resided until each was married. Within the next few days the group contemplates a trip by auto to Yosemite, at which time they will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. Worthington's son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Worthington, of North Hollywood.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Miller absented themselves from town recently, complete with camping and fishing equipment, for an "expedition" into the great regions of the national parks and to other points of scenic interest. Accompanying them, and helping to hunt out the fishing holes, are cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Tompkins, of Escondido. Latest word is that they are now in the vicinity of Whitewall, Montanta, close to family and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nabower are meeting the group at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Less, in Whitehall, where their forces upon the poor, unsuspecting fish, will be consolidated for the remainder of the "expedition."

Mrs. Martha White, who is from Waverly, Iowa, recently visited in the John Thompson home at 5271 Bishop street.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Thompson of 8517 La Homa street, left on Saturday for a motor trip to Winnipeg, Canada, where Thompson will visit his brother, Robert, who expects to undergo eye surgery. They plan to visit Lake Louise and Banff before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hastings and infant son, of Berkeley, California, literally dropped from the skies last Sunday for a few hours visit in the home of the baby's grandmother, Mrs. Madge Lyen. Mrs. Hastings, formerly Miss Euretta Lyen, decided on a longer stay for herself and son, while Hastings made the return trip by air without his family.

TIPS TO VACATIONERS

Proper arrangements before leaving home can add much to the pleasure of a vacation, according to National Automobile Club. A list of things to do before starting on a trip include: cancel all appointments, arrange for lawn and garden to be maintained, stop deliveries of milk and newspapers, arrange for someone to take in the mail, turn off refrigerator and gas supply to stove and water heater, pull plugs on electric appliances, turn off furnace pilot light and extinguish all lights.

Many vacationers have found it of advantage to leave an extra house key with a trusted neighbor for emergency and to provide them with an itinerary. It is not advisable to pull down all blinds in the house, for this may prove an invitation to housebreakers.
